HIAL uses personal information for a range of purposes and our privacy notices provide information about why we obtain and collect personal information, and how we process it.

This privacy notice provides information about how we use personal information you provide through our recruitment portal, which is provided by eArcu on HIAL's behalf.

Why are we collecting your information?

The primary purpose of the recruitment portal is to allow people to receive information about posts that are available within the HIA group of companies (which includes AMSL and DAL as well as HIAL), and to enable people to create and submit a job application where they wish to be considered for one of the positions available.

What information is collected?

The information we collect from you will depend upon how you wish to use the portal. To sign up to job alerts, you create a profile for which we require:

- Your e-mail
- Your alert preferences

You may choose to use to register a profile linked to your Facebook or LinkedIn account. In this case eArcu will:

- Use your Facebook or LinkedIn profile, including your experience, education, skills and recommendations
- Use the primary e-mail address associated with your Facebook or LinkedIn account. eArcu's terms will apply. These can be modified at any times from your profile settings.

To apply for a position with the HIA group of companies, we will collect information about:

- Contact details

- Skills, qualifications, experience and work history
- Eligibility to work in the UK
- Personal circumstances where relevant, for example, to assess requirements for relocation
- Criminal convictions – this is required due to the requirement to assess eligibility for a security pass
- Medical information for some roles
- Driving license status for some roles
- Conflicts of interest
- Any previous employment with the HIAL group
- Information to allow us to monitor our compliance with equalities legislation

Most posts will also require us to obtain a security pass for you and you are likely to require a Disclosure Scotland certificate. Some roles also require a Counter Terrorist Check.

It should be noted that the information requirements may vary accordingly to role and if you have any queries about information we are asking you for, please contact recruitment@hial.co.uk in the first instance.

How will my information be used?

Lawful Basis

Where you have requested that job alerts are e-mailed to you, we are processing this request based on your consent. You will be e-mailed an alert each time a relevant new vacancy is added to the portal. You may withdraw this consent at any time.

Information relating to a specific job application is processed for the purposes of taking the necessary steps to enter into a contract of employment. For successful candidates, HIAL will retain this information on your personnel file to manage this contract.

For unsuccessful candidates, a limited amount of information about your application is retained for a short time after the decision-making process is complete to ensure we are able to deal with any queries relating to your application. Further information on retention timescales is provided below.

Within the recruitment portal, you also have the option to upload and store your personal information that may be saved and used for a job application at some point in the future. We are processing this information using your consent which you may withdraw at any time. You can request this information be deleted at any time by contacting recruitment@hial.co.uk.

International Transfer

HIAL has data processing agreements in place with those that process personal information on our behalf, including eArcu. As far as we are able to establish, your personal information will not be transferred to any countries that are outside of the EEA.

Will my information be passed to anyone else?

Where you have signed up for job alerts, your data will be processed by IT companies processing personal information on HIAL's behalf, and will not be passed to any other third parties.

Any information submitted in response to a job application will be passed to the recruitment panel members, with the exception of any information relating to equalities. Equalities information is processed by the HR team only. Information may be sent to other third parties where it is required as part of the recruitment process. This includes Disclosure Scotland and, depending upon the role you are applying for, may include passing information to HIAL's Occupational Health provider or GP surgery providing this service on HIAL's behalf.

Personal information that is uploaded to the portal although not submitted as part of a job application is not processed by any team within HIAL or any third party, other than the recruitment portal which provides the storage facility.

What happens when my information is no longer required?

HIAL regularly verifies that those who have signed up for job alerts wish to continue to receive them. If you do not respond to a request to confirm you wish to continue to receive job alerts, you will be removed from the list 3 months after our confirmation request. You may withdraw your consent at any time by contacting recruitment@hial.co.uk and you will be removed from HIAL's job alerts with immediate effect. You can also unsubscribe from these alerts using the link provided in each e-mail or by logging into the portal. If you wish for your details to be deleted this can be done by e-mailing recruitment@hial.co.uk.

Personal information submitted as part of a job application will be retained as follows:
